INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE DECIDED THIS WEEK.

TO BEGIN AT ARDSLIY ON WEDNESDAY-HAR-VARD MEN CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS-YALE MAY TAKE THE INDIVIDUAL

The eyes of the goling world will again be directed this week toward the picturesque links at Ardsey, where the college golfers will meet to decide their third championship. Intercollegiate golf is attracting far more attention this season than ever before, as the college boys have shown themselves to be among the most able and finished players in the country. The success of Walter B. recent National championship is indicative of the rapid advance in the undergraduate ranks, and the oming tournament should be well worth the jourconfinue during the remainder of the week. The ip and the last two to the individual chamouship. The magnificent silver trophy offered for resented it with the understanding that the tournament should be held at the Ardsley links for bree successive years, after which the association d be free to choose what course it pleased. The college boys regard it with unconcealed atisfaction, for there is no more nearly ideal spot in the country than this famous links on the Hudon. The course compares favorably with any and the Ardsley Club house is second to none.

Yale is the present holder of the cup, and should ter team win again this week it will be added to that famous collection of trophies in the Yale gymsium which symbolizes the prowess of Old Ell's ons in the athletic world. The first championship was held in the spring of 1897, when the competitors vere Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Columbia. Last my the second was held, and Yale was again the There were rumors that both the Univerty of Pennsylvania and Cornell would enter ams, but none appeared, and the present chamhip will also be confined to the original quaralthough by the constitution of the association The fact that another chamhange the date from spring to fall, in order to old a time of year when so many men are

By his victory a fortnight ago in the St. Andrews tournament, where he defeated Alfred L. Norris, of the Dyker Mendow Golf Club, in the final round, John Reid, ir, must be regarded as a possible winner of the individual championship cup, in spite of the reputation of Smith. The latter plays an undoubtedly brilliant game, but, like all golfers, he is subject to periods of mediocrity, and his success this week is by no means as certain as would at first appear. Besides taking the St. Andrews cup. Reid established a new record of 82 for the links, and was first in the qualifying round on the opening day, when some of the best golfers in the country were opposed to him. In August Reid won the Saratoga Cup for the second successive year.

Coumbia's chances, do not appear any stronger than last season, and her team will probably again be relegated to last place. The golfers there are handicapped in having no university links upon which they may practise, but the interest is strong, and more than twenty candidates are now working for the team. A college championship is to be held on the Englewood links early this week, and the showing made will determine the make-up of the team. Louis Livingston, if, who played last year, has left Columbia and his loss will be severely felt. Stuyvesant F. Morris has been continued as captain, and he is working to make the best showing possible.

In partial conflict with the intercollegiate champtonship will be the first open tournament of the Richmond County Country Club, which will take Island, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The course is a full eighteen-hole one, and its present condition is excellent. The club has spared no pains to make the affair a success, and, with the Ardsley tournament will not result seriously. The programme of play is as follows:

Thursday, October 27. 10 a. m.—Qualifying round for Richmond County Club Cup, presented by George Cromwell, eighteen holes, medal play, scratch, prize for the best gross score, 2 p. m.—First round, Richmond County Cup, eighteen holes, match play, open only to players making the sixteen best scores in the qualifying round, 2:30 p. m.—First round, Consolation Cup, presented by J. A prize will be presented to the winning team, and another for the lowest individual score.

This is to be "club week" at the Morris County Golf Club, and special contests for men and women are to be in progress each day. This morning the semi-final round of the Bushnell Cup for women is to be decided. The annual meeting of the club is to take place on Monday, October 31, and the following ticket of officers is proposed: President, George G. Frelinghuysen; treasurer, Edward T. Nichols, and secretary, Arthur Berry.

The women's championship of the Powelton Golf Club, of Newburg, will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. Miss Grace Jenkins is the present title-holder.

The annual championships of the Country Club of Westchester will be decided this week, the women's contest being set for Friday and the men's for Saturday.

In the qualifying round of the championship of the Jersey City Golf Club on Saturday the following eight became eligible for the cup: George A. Toffey, W. C. Ridgway, G. W. Case, G. H. Bowly, B. P. Craig, G. F. Perkins, jr., C. C. Harmsted and W. B. Eager.

His grand average in a series of games with Mullins, of Cleveland, was over fine, and his preliminary work has installed him as the favorite for first honors. Stark is said to be in excellent form, however, while a well-actined rumor has been in circulation to the effect that the handleapper has underseximated Sevarios.

HOW THE MANUFACTURERS VIEW THE SHOW QUESTION.

YESTERDAY'S CEUR RUNS-INTERESTING FIGURES REGARDING THE EXPORTATION OF AMERICAN

To show or not to show is a question that is troubling the average manufacturer of bleycles just now. A talk with some of the manufacturers and dealers regarding the announcement that a show would be held at Madison Square Garden with or without a sanction of the Board of Trade proves that they do not seem to be much troubled on that score. Some of the makers say that they are not considering the subject at this time, and that they are indifferent to what their neighbors will do. A meeting of the directors of the Board of Trade will be held on November 3, when the show question will be discussed at length and something definite decided on. At the last meeting of the Board the show question was brought up, but after expressions of opinion from several of the manufacturers it was decided to table the subject, and nothing has been done officially since then. One manufacturer, when seen, will say that he is vigorously opposed to shows and that he wants none of them. His nearest neighbor will take just the opposite view of the case. The man across the street says that he is indifferent, and that if the other makers decide to make exhibits at a show he will do the same thing. Few of the manufacturers will be satisfied with the date selected—January 21: o.28. Many of the large makers and the manufacturers of accessories have already found a market for their entire output by that time, and they say that a show then would do them no good. The agreement signed by the different members of the Board of Trade not to exhibit at any shows or to assist in such exhibitions in any way expired last summer. will do. A meeting of the directors of the Board Yesterday was an ideal day for outdoor exercise of any sort, and the cyclists were out in large numbers. Riverside Drive and the Boulevard were thronged, while there were the usual crowds on the thronged, while there were the usual crowds on the cycle paths in Brooklyn and the Hudson County Boulevard in New-Jersey. Some wheelmen kept away from the popular Coney Island paths on account of the high wind, but those who did made a mistake. While the wind was strong it blew across the paths, and it did not cause much inconvenience to riders going either way. The air was clear, bracing and invigorating, and the cyclists who remained indoors, as a rule, were sorry that they had done so.

Several hundred people were present at the Parkway Driving Club, Brooklyn, yesterday to watch the prominent amateurs in training for the race meet which will take place on Election Day. Nearly a dozen of the big multicycle machines were on the track pacing the riders. The Nassau Wheelmen triplet team rode half a mile in 1:93-25, while a Kings County "quint" team made the same distance in 0:53. Charles Earl, paced by the Kings County Wheelmen multicycle teams, made five miles in 10:56, and then kept on and made ten miles in 22:35-1-5, good time, considering the conditions.

A decline in the exports of cycles and parts from England is again visible in the Government returns which are available for the eight months of the present year ending with August. The following table shows the extent of the decline:

Cycling has become popular in and around Smyrna, in Asia Minor, in the last few years. Most of the machines sold and used there five or six years ago were of English make, but the Austrian consulthere reports that American machines lave been recently introduced on a large scale. He estimates that fully 50 per cent of the machines now imported are American, and less than 25 per cent English, while the balance are supplied by German and Belgian cycle manufacturers.

An Austrian firm is extensively advertising chainhas forced the makers of the Acatene machine the only one which seems to have met with succe Belgium—to reduce their price from $130 to $36

The returns issued by the Toronto Board of Trade show that in May last the value of the cycles imported into that city reached a total of $5,010, as against $58,120 in the corresponding month of 1897.

Paragraphs to the effect that tandem riding has increased to a wonderful extent this year have been printed at regular intervals, but just the recondition of affairs seems to exist. A thorsuch canvass of the situation has been made, and the records show that fewer tandems have been the records show that fewer tandems have been sold this year than usual; in fact, that the sale of tandems has fallen off nearly 50 per cent. This is made up, however, by the wonderful increase in the sale of drap-frame single wheels for women. Any observing cyclist who has spent much time on the road this year will bear out this statement, for certainly more women riders are seen on the road than ever before. The manufacturers recognized this some time ago, and several of the prominent makers propose to give considerable attention to their drop-frame models for next season. The general equipment will be finer and the weight reduced materially.

"They are buying bicycles in some parts of this glorious country all the year round," said a prominent dealer on Saturday. "While the purchasing season may not be particularly brisk around Newtork just now, I know some dealers who are get-ting ready to do considerable business in about six weeks. They will ship a stock of first-class wheels down to the winter resorts in Florida, and as soon as the season opens there in earnest they will be kept busy. They are also having a big trade in wheels in Texas and California now." York just now, I knew some dealers who are getperiencing difficulty in obtaining supplies of billets, owing to the activity at present prevailing in the German fron and steel trades.

German cycles, as well as American, are being extensively pushed in Norway in competition with English machines.

There is just about as much chance of the League of American Wheelmen giving up the controi of racing as there is for a six-day match of any sort to be really edifying and ennobling.

tically at an end, and for this blessing many of the best friends of the sport are devoutly thank Financially the season has been extremely prosperous for the racetracks and a few owners William C. Whitney made his advent as the Urfe of the turf, to the intense joy of David Gideon John E. Madden, Colonel James E. Pepper and the breeders throughout the country. The purchase of Jean Beraud, Plaudit, Mr. Clay, Buela and other racers, with the purchase of Meddler for stud purposes, establishes values in the thoroughbred mar-ket. At the eleventh hour Perry Belmont fluttered into the sale ring, and was halled as a cherub by the plous coterie of trainers who bow down to good things in eason and out. With Ethelbert and other horses racing in Perry Belmont's colors turf prophets predict a brilliast season next year, and with the Morris brothers in the market with such good ones as Filligrane, Manuel and Kentucky Colonel the layers of odds are possessed of a bland confidence in the future of racing that causes a feeling of timidity to prevail in the lobster market for fear there will not be enough to go around. will race exclusively in this country next year, for he has sold Badegroom II to Leopoid Rothschild. James R. Keene has an extensive stable of highly tried youngsters for the two-year-old classes next season at Morris Park, and it is likely that the opular white and blue spots made famous b Foxhall and Domino will be frequently seen in the two-year-old contests next year. Then there is Richard Croker and his imported Little Saint to add interest to the contests. It is, indeed, doubtful hardened sinners that have been perplexing racepossible chance to redeem the turf if W. H. Clark will only engage some of the stewards, the handicapper and the starter of the present season to act solely for and to give their individual attention to the affairs of the new racetrack near Yonkers. Sloanesque riding has taken a firm hold in England, and, although the American jockey has had a few slight attacks of "finicism," he grows more tracts to ride for Lord William Beresford next season, and will ride in England next month. As reported in The Tribune, Sloan will return to this country next month to arrange his affairs, and will spring handleaps. Many English papers rejotee that Sloan's riding, his peculiar seat and the notoriety he has gained have given racing an impetus in England, and that the attendance at the races has been largely increased owing to the dis-cussions caused by his methods and mannerisms. A few paragraphs from English newspapers follow In regard to the race for the Middle Park Plate. won by Calman with Sloan in the saddle, "The Lon-

It was an ideal day for the exploitation of Sloan's peculiar methods. Competitors had to face a very strong wind, which blew directly down the course. Sloan termed it a cyclone, and certainly its effects alike on hostile criticism and the bookmakers pockets were terribly destructive. On whatever other point the little American's methods may be assailed, everybody must now recognize the merit of his doubled-up posture in windy weather. He cuts the wind with his shoulders, so offering the minimum of resistance, whereas a lockey riding to English style, and sixting upright offers the maximum and must inevitably be at a disadvantage.

Before the race for the Middle Park Plate Sloan called his little party of friends together and advised them to exceed their usual stake on Calman as, in his opinion, the "cyclone" was pounds in his favor. They needed no second bidding. In a solid phalanx they charged the British bookmaker, and generally charged him much more than he cared for. It was an ideal day for the exploitation of Sloan' ning ones, it will readily be admitted that the in the minds of English turfmen in favor of Ameri can methods. By winning all his mounts, Sloar accomplished what is known as the hat trick in England; consequently he received a warm greet ing when he landed Calman a winner.

Gimcrack in "The Birmingham Post" says:

Gimcrack in "The Birmingham Post" says:

Sloan is champion horseman for the week ending October 15, for of his twenty-one mounts ten have been winning ones, and he yesterday, as at the last Newmarket meeting, wound up in brilliant fashion, winning all three races in which he took part, among them the Middle Park Plate on Caiman This is Sloan's most important winner in this country so far. T. Loates has had the same number of mounts as Sloan, and they have produced the very fine proportion of cight wins. C. Wood has had six winners during the week. Allsopp and several other of our prominent horsemen have all drawn blanks.

Lord Rosebery's Velasquez will be kept in training next year, and no doubt we shall see him win other good races.

In the evening Sloan's favorite passime is billiards. He is not a tectotaller, but is distinctly a temperate man, to which fact he attributes his success.

Chalcureux is the first favorite to win the Cesarewitch since 182, when Burnaby won at 7 to 1, after being quoted at 20 to 1 on the morning of the race.

and a singular career. "The London Daily Mail" or or this the following:

Chaleureux's victory would be appreciated by Sir lames Miller and the stable, but the bulk of the money won goes to the public. Chaleureux and derminius had been steady as rocks in the betting from the moment the weights appeared, and naturally those who opened books on the race early have suffered most. The career of Chaleureux has seen a curious and interesting one. He was bought for $15 as a fool, his dam being sold for $50, and a failed to elicit a hid when put up as a yearling. Even as a young three-year-old he was never rearried as more than an ordinary plater. There were two or three sad and sorry former owners oresent, ready to eat their hearts out with vexalons at having parted with him.

Sir James Miller, Chaleureux's latest and therefore lucklest owner, has been exceptionally fortunate all through his turf career in his purchases of ready-made racers as distinguished from yearlings in the days of his novitiate, being then a young man of twenty-six, he bound Salifon from John Porter, and two months later won the Derby with a lock of an average man. But the Border faronet keeps it up by winning the Cesarewitch with a horse which was carrying his jacket for the rist time. Another judicious purchase was that of Pinfold for $50 guineas who has won him the Donaster and Brighton cups, and may not improbably winding the Cesarewitch and the cambridgeshire. Then there is not in the cambridgeshire of the choles of the challenge and other useful acers.

STAR POINTER TO BE SOLD AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN AFTER THE HORSE SHOW-GOSSIP OF THE TROTTERS.

The champion pacer Star Pointer, 1:594, is to be old at auction in Madison Square Garden next month, James A. Murphy having yesterday consigned the famous horse to the Fasig sale, which follows the National Horse Show. Star Pointer has already passed under the hammer on two occasions. He was sold at Cleveland in the spring of 1896 for about $5,000. Smith & Mills, of Boston, being 1896 for about 18,00¢, Smith & Mills, of Boston, being the buyers. They consigned him to one of the Garden sales in the winter of 1896-57, and he was purchased for $15,690 by his present owner, James A. Murphy, of Chicago. Since then he has lowered his record from 2:02½ to 1:29¼, and has paced five exhibition miles below 2:90. Although the stallion failed to lower his record this season, he has shown better form than ever before, and there is likely to be some lively bilding for him when he passes under the hammer.

Filatus, 2:094, by Onward, to Austrian horsemen, has not yet been consummated. When the forhorse had gained his record there, they paid only $100 to bind the deal, and repudiated the contract the following week, when Pilatus was beaten at Louisville. After his fine performance in the Transylvania at Lexington the Austrians were again willing to buy for $7.000, but they found that the owner, J. M. McClellan, had bought him in the mean time. eigners made the bargain at Terre Haute, after the from George A. Fuller, of Lincoln, Ill., the three-year-old trotting filly Janle T., 2:14, by Bow Bells, will probably be retired from the turf and used for breeding purposes. Janie T. gained her record of 214 as a two-year-old, and won the Kentucky Fu-turity for trotters of that age. She has made a poor showing on the turf this year, having been distanced in the Kentucky Futurity for three-year-olds at Lexington. Cut Glass, 2:16%, is the last American trotter of note that has been purchased by the Austrian horsemen who are now in this country. She is a seven-year-old bay mare, by Onward, 2-254, out of Crystal, by Crittenden: granddam, Millie Willies, by George Wilkes. Mrs. S. L. Stout, of Faywood, Ky., bred Cut Glass and sold her to the foreigners for a long price. The mare gained her record of 2:10M at Boston last September in the Grand Circuit meet-feet in said independent of force course and said and made and entered in the above entitled action and hearing date the fifth day of October, 1818. If the understands the feftere in said independent amed, will sell at public auction McHenry have formed a partnership for the purpose of training and campaigning a stable of trotters and pacers next year. Keating is the Callfornia reinsman who brought Dione, 2.0914, and the great pacers Searchlight, 2.014; Anaconda, 2.044, and Klatawah, 2.2516, over the mountains this year, campaigning them with remarkable success in the Grand Circuit. He is known as one of the Grand Circuit. He is known as one of the barding trainers and conditioners in the craft, but his health is delicate, and he was unable to drive his horses in a majority of their races, McHenry having taken his place on several occasions, with marked success. A great many competent critics marked success. A great many competent critics consider McHenry to be the greatest driver who ever mounted a sulky, but he hardly ranks with Keating as a trainer.

been trafining trotters in Russia during the last three or four years is back in the United States for a short stay. Caton says the winnings of his Block 809. stable from April 29, 1897, to April 29, 1898, were $123,000, which is something like four times the amount won by any string of trotters in this country during the same period. Passe Rose, a five-year-old bay stallion by Patron, 2:14%, that Caton took to Russia from Cleveland, won the inernational prize at Moscow, trotting two heats in 143, and heating all previous records made in the land of the Czar. The pronounced superiority of the American horses over the native Orion trotters ha lately led to a change of policy on the part of Russian turf authorities, which will, it is feared, destroy the growing market for American trotters there. Heretofore five or six races at each meeting have been open to the Americans, and the purses in such races have been very large. Caton says that hereafter only two races for small purses will be open to the Yankee trotters. Half a dozen or more prominent American reinsmen are now training trotters in Russia, and negotiations are bending with one of the best-known drivers in New-York, which may result in adding another name to the list. ared, destroy the growing market for American

One of the newest aspirants for the championship of the Speedway is Albert C., 2:164, a Virginia trotter of speed and stamina recently purchased by A. B. Gwathmey from W. J. Carter, of Richmond. He is a seven-year-old bay gelding, by Floyd's Clay, a son of Walker's Morrill, and his dam was Wilkins's Daisy, by Signet, a son of Eyre's Ham-bletonian Pilot. The horse was raised on the Eastern Shore of Virginia. For three years he has Eastern Shore of Virginia. For three years he has been campaigned on Eastern tracks, and has rarely failed to connect with the money. He started thirteen times in 1897 and won ten races, gaining his record of 2.19% at Baltimore. This year he was mixed up in a ringing episode in New-England, where, it is said, he was started in the slow classes under the name William T. Mr. Carter bought the horse after Albert C. had become an outlaw on the trotting turf. Since coming to New-York he has beaten such noted Speedway flyers as Glemmere Eog. 2.14%; Clayton, 2.15%, and Madison Chief, 2.17%, and Mr. Gwathmey now has designs on the scalp of Cobwebs, 2.12, the acknowledged king of the road. The recent action of the Horse Show judges at White Plains and Morristown in refusing to recog nize the pacer in a show in competition for gentlemen's road horses has stirred up something of a protest from several Western horsemen and horse ournals. Their criticism of David Bonner, Albert Hall and Joseph Agostini, the three representative New-York road riders who acted as judges, is based on the admitted fact that the fastest pacers and on the road. But, say the trotting-horse advocates in reply, a runner could beat them both—why an tharness the thoroughbred if speed is the only thing you want? Their objection to the pacer as a road horse is that his swaying, wobbling mofton cannot, according to their ideas, be compensated for by any amount of speed. It is often said that the medern trotting-bred pacer no longer has the outgirly swinging action which characterized the old-time rackers, but this is true only in a measure. The merest novice, standing on Washington Bridge, can detect at a glance the wobble of the straightest-going pacer in New-York as far away is the furthermost end of the Speedway. Although many pacers are to be seen on the road newadays, they are not in favor among such horsemen as Robert Honner, Frank Work, Colonel Lawrence Kip, Nathan Straus, Colonel F, N. Lawrence and others, who set the fashion and the standard for light-harness horses and driving turnouts in New-York. can beat the fastest trotters, both on the racetrac The Hamlin string of trotters and pacers has gone into winter quarters at the head of all win-ning stables for the season of 1808. During their campaign, which began at Hartford on the Fourth of July and ended at Lexington last week, the Hamilto horses started in seventy-four races, win-ning first money in twenty-eight, second money in fourteen, third money in six, and fourth money in tive, besides dividing third and fourth money in tive, besides dividing third and fourth money in one race. They were unplaced twenty times. Their total winnings amounted to $36,13750, of which $11,450, or nearly one-third, was won by the four-year-old pacer Lady of the Manor. 2,073, She started in thirteen races, winning ten of them and being twice third and once fourth. No other pacer to on the turf has won so large an amount this year. The young mare came out green at the beginning of the season. She is a full sister to General R. F. Tracy's well-known trotting stallion, Lord of the Manor, by Mambrino King, out of Princess Chimes.
